This volume presents a wide range of articles dealing with the various aspects of Jewish -architecture throughout the centuries and its interaction with literature, politics, etc. -Scholars from Europe, Israel and America presented their current research on Jewish -architecture at the international conference “Jewish Architecture – New Sources and -Approaches” at the Technische Universität Braunschweig in April 2014. The conference marked the twentieth anniversary of the fruitful German-Israeli cooperation of the Bet Tfila – Research Unit for Jewish Architecture in Europe.
